

Readers Theater
WOLFMAN

CHARACTERS:

NARRATOR 1:  NARRATOR 2:  READER 1: WOLFMAN
READER 2: CITIZEN 1  READER 3: CITIZEN 2
READER 3: MAYOR / POLICE OFFICER  /

     : Look out! Look out! Wolfman is coming!

 : Roar! Roar! I am Wolfman!

 : There was panic when people heard Wolfman was out of his cage.

 : People were running down the street and screaming. They were very scared.

   : We are so scared!

 : Wolfman is coming!

  : Wolfman is coming! Run! Run!

 : Wolfman had broken out of his cage, and was now roaring around the city.

Readers Theater

 : Roar! Roar! I am Wolfman. I need something to eat.
I need a place to stay.

 : Stomp! Stomp! Stomp!
The streets were shaking.

 : Wolfman is coming! Wolfman is coming!

 : Everyone was running home and hiding indoors.

 : They were very scared.

 : We are very scared!

 : Look! Wolfman is throwing stones—

 : Biting through trees—

 : And eating trash cans!

 : It's so horrible!

 : Roar! Roar! I am Wolfman. I am so hungry.

 : Send in the army!

 : But the army sent back a message.

 : "Sorry, we can't. We're too scared!"

 : Things were looking bad.

Wolfman was running around the city.

 : People were looking out from behind their curtains, thinking—

 : Please don't come near our house, Wolfman!

 : But Wolfman marched on.

 : I am Wolfman. I eat girls for lunch and boys for dinner.
No one can stop me!

     : Where was he going?

 : To the park?

 : To the school?

 : To the mall?

  : No! Not the park, not the school, and not the mall!

   : Then where?

 : People could see that he was heading for the police station.

  : The police station!

 : Oh no! He is heading this way!

 : The police officer was very scared.

 : He was in the back room, hiding behind the sofa.

  : Wolfman marched on. He was getting closer to the police station.

 : Roar! Roar! I am Wolfman. Where is everyone?

      : Stomp! Stomp! Stomp!
The ground was shaking.

     : Wolfman is coming! Wolfman is coming!

 : Please go away, Wolfman!

Readers Theater

: But Wolfman didn't stop.
He got to the main door of the police station.

: And entered the building.

: Roar! Roar! I am Wolfman. Is anyone here?

       : Stomp! Stomp! Stomp!
The house was shaking.

     : Wolfman is coming! Wolfman is coming!

 : Oh no! Wolfman is inside the building!

 : Wolfman kept moving to the back room.

 : Roar! Roar! I am Wolfman.

 : Help! Help!

 : Wolfman went to the sofa and found the police officer hiding behind it.

 : The police officer pulled out his gun.

  : Shoot him! Shoot him!

 : What do you want, Wolfman?
Tell me! What do you want?

 : There was a moment's silence.

 : And then Wolfman looked at the police officer and, in a quiet, moaning voice, said—

 : May I use your bathroom?

